Life's a beach for pop star

Niall Horan from One Direction had a low-key time Tuesday night at Cecconi's, the restaurant at Soho Beach House. Our spy says the teen heart-throb was with a few (nonfamous) friends and was "well behaved," having a few beers, keeping mainly to themselves and getting chatty with the bartender.

Shocker: No one approached the 21-year-old, as per our onlooker. And that's just the way Horan likes it. In a recent interview with BBC Radio 1, he complained that paparazzi has posed some dangers to the group. "We've been chased down the street and on the motorways at 70 miles an hour, and surely that's not safe."

The night before, the adorable Irishman made a stop at Miami Beach hot spot Bodega Taqueria y Tequila — but his activity was not as under the radar. A fellow patron dished to The New York Daily News: "He got a bottle of Grey Goose... and tipped very well. Five girls met him on the balcony and he picked up his guitar and serenaded them. Then the crowd below got crazy and tried to get up the spiral staircase, past two security guards, to get a better look at him."

FAMILY FIRST
In disappointing news for Brandon Flowers' fans: The singer's Wednesday night show at the Fillmore Miami Beach has been canceled.

Tickets will be refunded at point of purchase and dates are not being rescheduled. Flowers had been touring in support of his new solo album The Desired Effect. In a statement, The Killers frontman apologized for pulling out "due to unforeseen circumstances." On his Facebook page, the singer gave a few more details: "To the Southeastern stronghold, I am sorry I canceled on such short notice. There are 3 little boys and a woman that needed me in Las Vegas. Everything is copacetic." He is referring to wife Tana Mundkowsky and their brood, Gunnar, Henry and Ammon. In March, the entertainer told The Bellini Telegraph: "When I'm not making music, I try to be the best dad I can be to my kids, try to be the best husband I can be to my wife. And maybe get a little in."

OUT OF NOWHERE
Rob Kardashian has come out of social media hiding. But instead of explaining why the reality star is not as omnipresent as his siblings, he decided to post a few random photos, one being of Colin Farrell as Senny Cowart in the 2005 Miami Vice movie riding in a speedboat with costar Li Gong. Whaaaaa?

CELEBRITY ROUNDUP

Rihanna's got a brand new gig

Rihanna is headed to The Voice. NBC Entertainment Chairman Bob Greenblatt announced Thursday that the singer will serve as a key adviser to all the coaches on the new season of the singing competition show. Blake Shelton, Gwen Stefani, Adam Levine and Pharrell will say so. The network previously announced that country star Brad Paisley would be an adviser to Shelton. Season nine begins at 8 p.m. Sept. 21.

Greenblatt also announced that just a few months after Jimmy Fallon ousted his first anniversary as host of The Tonight Show, NBC has signed him for six more years. The honcho calls the SNL alum "the best there is."

MAKING A SCENE
If all is said and done between Khloé Kardashian and Lamar Odom, why was the one-time Miami Heat player showing up at Khloé's gym unannounced on Wednesday? The former basketball player, 35, was photographed approaching Kardashian, 31, as she entered the SoulCycle studio in Beverly Hills. Onlookers told TMZ he was screaming at her, but he insisted to the gossip site he didn't harass her and didn't mean to scare her.

KC told Complex magazine's latest issue: "I talk to Lamar as often as I can, which is inconsistent, but not on my terms" and that she misses him "every day."

Perhaps he has other reasons for wanting to chat: RadarOnline reports Odom is currently being offered millions to do a sit-down blab about his life with the famous family. He could probably use the cash.

According to Life & Style, his ex-wife made out like a bandit, with a divorce settlement valued at $2 million.

FILM ON ABUSE
TLC network has set date for its new documentary to raise awareness about child sexual abuse. Breaking the Silence will air at 10 p.m. Aug. 20. To be broadcast commercial-free, the documentary aims to shine a light on the challenges faced by those affected by child sexual abuse, as well as raise awareness of where people can turn for help. The film was first announced last month when TLC pulled the plug on its hit series P-Kids and Courting After reports surfaced that one of its stars, Josh Duggar, the oldest of the family's 19 children, had fondled four of his sisters and a babysitter a dozen years before, when he was a teen.

ROYAL VISIT
Britain's Prince Harry has been on a private visit to South Africa's flagship wildlife park, where poachers have killed rhinos in record numbers and clashed with rangers. South Africa's national parks provided Harry with "exposure" to his nation work, including efforts against poaching, during his visit to Kruger National Park, the service said in a statement Thursday to The Associated Press. The service said media reports that Harry visited in the arrest of eight suspects on Aug. 5 were false. They were detailed separate operations at the Kruger park which involved a firefight in which one was wounded.

SLICE OF HISTORY
The Idaho house where Ernest Hemingway wrote his last words before killing himself in 1961 has been listed in the National Register of Historic Places. The Conservancy owns the two-story, 2,500-square-foot home in the central Idaho town of Solihem.

AS SEEN ON TV
Curtis Stone gets a taste of Hogfish, late-night kanzoko and a "magnet" of interesting people welcomed Food Network host Curtis Stone to Key West.

The New York Times bestselling cookbook author visited the southernmost city for the first time as part of his new six-episode Food Network series, Beach Eats USA, which premiered Wednesday night.

The show, which emphasizes good eating along the water, also features locations such as Corpus Christi, Texas, and Huntington Beach, California.

"It's such a remote place, it really is closer to Cuba than mainland Florida," Stone told The Keynoter by phone from Australia.

The native Aussie visited Hot Tin Roof, The Fish Camp and Turtle Kraals as part of the show. To choose the restaurants, Stone sought out suggestions from his social media followers for local hotspots. He then created a short list before talking to restaurateurs and chefs.

"We wanted it all to feel very genuine," Stone said.

His Key West Feast included chicken tacos, pink peel and eat shrimp, catfish and his first hogfish sandwich. Stone particularly liked the ceviche at Turtle

It's good to be a pop prince.
